SUMMARY OF THE REASONS FOR DECISION:

The DVD entitled Pirate Video Deluxe Eternal Ecstasy is classified as:
Objectionable except if the availability of the publication is restricted to persons who have attained the age of 18 years.

This classification is primarily due to the manner in which the publication deals with matters of sex, in the form of explicitly depicted sexual activity that is intended to sexually arouse the viewer.

The publication contains a version of a feature previously classified in video recording format by the Classification Office. The video recording entitled Pirate Video Deluxe Eternal Ecstasy (OFLC No. 101416) was classified as "Objectionable except if the availability of the publication is restricted to persons who have attained the age of 18 years". This classification decision was registered on 16 October 2001. The version of the feature on the DVD is identical to the video version.

Along with the feature, the DVD contains additional moving image and still components including some personal details of the main female participants and a Photobook which is a collection of still images explicitly depicting sexual activity taken from the feature. There are no new matters raised by the additional material on the DVD and its impact is not sufficient to warrant a more restrictive classification than that given to the video recording.

The DVD contains an embossed image of a woman posing and exposing her breasts for the camera in an overtly sexualised manner. A background image depicts two women and part of the body of a third participant, whose body positions, partial nudity and stylised bondage attire heavily implies that they are engaged in sexual activity. These images are likely to offend reasonable members of the public. The Classification Office therefore imposes display conditions, under the criteria of s27(5) of the FVPC Act, in order to avoid the causing of such offence.
